AbroadLink welcomes professionals to Barcelona (Spain) in the major localization industry event: Localization World Conference

July 2006

Last month, in a joint initiative with other top Spanish localization and translation services, AbroadLink sponsored the welcoming reception organized at El Poble Espanyol, the perfect place to introduce Spain's popular architecture to conference attendees. Since it was conceived for the 1929 International Exhibition, El Poble Espanyol has remained a synthesis of Spanish architecture, arts and crafts.

AbroadLink's managing director, José Gambín, had the opportunity to meet other peers to learn about the latest trends and technology products in the industry. Different representative of international corporations, such as Fujitsu, Citrix, Mercury, or Microsoft, talked about localization related situations and solutions found in their companies.

AbroadLink's long term strategy is to strengthen our presence and participation in the Localization World Conference and others of the same nature.
